Peak to Peak Endurance Race, entries closing soon

Pre-registration for the annual Peak to Peak Endurance Race closes this Friday, no registrations on the Day will be accepted. Saturday 9 January is go day.

With a similar course to previous years, which involves racing to the summit peaks at Tairua and Pauanui, a swim across the harbour and a jog along the beach, this regular summer event will challenge competitors regardless of their ability.

Starting from the Marina at Tairua, competitors will race up Paku (approximately a 3km climb), back down for a 200-400m swim across to Pauanui Beach, an approximate 3km run along the hard sand, up the track to the trig station of Pauanui's peak (elevation 995.3ft), then back down, along the beach, across the channel, finishing back at the Marina. Simple.

Register now at :www.peaktopeakenduro.co.nz/course/ in either the long or short haul sections, in the male, female or team categories. Athlete check-in opens at 6.45am on the Day. Race briefing is 7.45am for an 8am start.

Watch our water supply, please

Most locals have been impressed, to say the least, with the crowds that have thronged to our towns. It is obvious that the lack of overseas travel opportunity has brought them out in force in the nation's popular holiday haunts.

Water conservation at this time is very important. Despite Tairua commissioning its new water treatment plant earlier this year, the amount of water able to be drawn from its supplies is governed by resource consents and rainfall. As the rainfall has been negligible in the lead up to summer we are limited in what is available for use. Despite a few good heavy showers in the past few days the catchment needs a good bout of prolonged rain, not quite what our holiday makers want I'm sure.

Keen gardeners will be resorting to Plans B, C and D to ensure their crops get the vital water they need at this time. Restrictions have come into force and at present we are down to hand-held hoses used on alternate days – even house number gets even numbered days, odds get odds.

Please check daily for any changes to the water restrictions. They are posted on signs coming into town or can be found on the TCDC website: www.tcdc.govt.nz

The Waikato Regional Council has voiced its concerns about water availability recently. Growing awareness that our water resources are limited, and multiple demands on the resource, has focused thinking on sustainability! We are being encouraged to consider small-storage technologies with the potential to contribute water for domestic and agricultural use. Waikato Regional Council and TCDC should be contacted for advice and guidance. Many of us will be seriously contemplating installing tanks to provide the gardens with year-round supply!
